Boy Band All Stars

Backstreet Boys, NSYNC and One Direction hits, sung live with full choreography.

About

Backstreet Boys and NSYNC songs make up most of the Boy Band All Stars set, and the show finishes with a run of One Direction. Four or five singers share the vocals live and move through synchronized routines, giving a room the kind of singalong that pulls in kids, parents and grandparents alike. The Los Angeles revue plays two 45-minute sets, either to tracks or, in its premium package, with a full live band. Theaters, festivals, city concert series, corporate events and private parties are all part of its range.

Full press bio

Boy Band All Stars is a Los Angeles boy band revue built on the biggest singalongs of the ’90s, 2000s and 2010s. The first set runs through the Backstreet Boys and NSYNC classics everyone knows by heart, from “Everybody (Backstreet’s Back)” to “I Want It That Way.” The second set brings it forward with a One Direction closing run. Four to five vocalists sing live with tight harmonies and synchronized choreography, performing to tracks or, in the premium package, with a full live band. The show runs as two 45-minute sets and plays to every age in the room, from grandparents to kids, which makes it a natural fit for corporate events, festivals, city concert series, theaters and private events.
